Return To 13th Zone

1

At one time in the past Doctor Perverto had entered the Earth Zone and came to recruit help to bring back to the 13th Zone. By the way the realm of experience which we have refer to as the 13th Zone was also called Oomph at one time.

Doctor P as he was called by his friends or just D P and by some who weren't that close as Mister P, had arrived and had made a secret agreement with the United States government to help him get help to bring back to get rid of The Sarge .

There was a mist that he had developed that could materialize a door or entrance that would allow him to not only travel from THE ZONE to The Earth Zone or any other Plane of Existence for that matter but also return at a given time and most likely bring back beings whether they were Creatures from Earth or anywhere else.

The big shots in Washington agreed to help not because they were generous but because D P as they called him gave the Earth Beings an instant natural cure for global warming that worked right away. And he also had a solution to clear up the Ozone Layer by transporting it to another zone or place that had no habitation at all.

This would solve a lot of the problem limiting the Earths hope of lasting more than another ten years,as was predicted at the time. D P promised to do this on his next trip back after conquering Smegmaville and the The Sarge and the Smegmanites.

2

He didn't have everything worked out for this great feat that the planet needed but he had a good idea how. If he could get a herd of beings,enough to overwhelm The Sarge his world would also be saved and changed forever and it would prove that his ultra advanced transport system was something that could advance both worlds.

The doctor chose the people who he knew he could trust the most and would be cool to hang out with and would populate Smegmaville once it was cleared out . Other Perverts. Every deviant that was out on the street was lured in to the scheme with what was promised as a trip to a world that they could have all the desires they needed and everyone was cool with it. And Doctor Perverto was a most interesting person. Remember he was a big admirer of John Waters, his hero on the Earth Plane. He had seen all his films on what was called in the 13th Zone, that we would call EARTH TV which was a way anyone could view or see anything on Earth. He had read all his books at least once and seen all his appearances on Earth Television so he had him down to a tee. The Doctor has a secret wish that someday John would become his good buddy and hang out together in his 13th Zone and pervert out and have a ball. Maybe even take him along to other dimensions to see how the mystery devices that stop time and made him invisible operated.

3

The other countries and the whole Planet for that matter got to know about the deal the US had and wanted in and got in. They also let all their perverts out of all their prisons and in their countries and ready to leave the planet. All the participants were shipped off or rounded up and were waiting in the only large space to put this big of a herd. Wyoming .It was like the walking dead only it wasn't Zombies it was 40 million perverts pumped up and ready to be transported.

The grand plan was now known to the whole world and everyone was watching. It was like the moon landing had been. The moment came. The Doctor had met John Waters,who was there and gave him and everyone watching a big smirk and suddenly everyone had vanished and were gone.

The next thing you know everyone was transported and arrived in the 13th zone. His main associates were there to greet the herd and with Doctor Perverto marched to Smegmaville. When everyone got there The Sarge and his Main Minions ran and hid out in a sewer for over a week until they thought it would be safe. After only a day or two most of Smegmaville had been cleared of those pests the Smegmanites. Hundreds were hiding in the Sewers but the main population of over 2 million were dead. Turns out although the Smegmanites were disgustingly awful to smell and look at the transported Perverts found them irresistible to eat and gobble down as much as they could but suddenly something happened and everything changed.

4

Something went wrong with his transport method

he never expected OR maybe he did but never told anyone. All the perverts were gone from the 13th zone and back on the Earth Plane where they came from. It had been almost a week that the herd was at the 13th Zone but in Earth time it was only a few minutes and everyone was back in Wyoming. It was quite a surprise for all the governments of Earth and they had no idea or plan on what to do now.

In the 13th Zone everything had changed from what it had been. Smegmaville was now just a small patch of living space of about ten miles square where it use to be over five hundred miles in size. All that was left was pretty much the worst sewer you could ever imagine. It was all the worst shit that no one ever wanted that the Sarge had been hording hoping and counting on it being worth something some day. This swamp of a sewer also had a lot of urine to and tons of diarrhea and big lumps of Smegmanite turds that were sometimes almost a half foot round.

This is where the Sarge and his two long time associates Piss and Moan had to hide out under the liquid with the remaining Smegmanites which was about one hundred. Believe it or not this bunch of nothings weren't bothered or distracted much from their underwater or rather Sewer water paradise. They could eat anything. They not only didn't smell that good except to themselves but they didn't have taste buds as we would know them. Everything tasted bad and actually tasted like shit to them so being in what they called a Sewer Soup wasn't bad at all.

They were like a fish that was on Earth called the Carp originally from China. It was a first that did the best in America to survive because this fish could eat anything even after we ate it meaning shit or any other filth that was useless and they could live in the worst water imaginable no matter how badly polluted it was because they made their own oxygen so it didn't matter how bad the water was. Someone put a carp in a empty large glass jar and sealed it tight. It lived for over a month and lost more than half its weight before it died. That's how the Sarge and his League of Losers survived.
As long as there was plenty of wastes there was nothing to waste. After a while when Doctor Perverto and his crew were sure The Sarge and his minions weren't going to bother them and make it to the Perverted Zone where they lived without being discovered. they started to plant flowers and vegetables in the area that was Smegmaville which was over ten miles now.

After everything had settle down in The 13th Zone both in what was left of Smegmaville,which was now refer to as The Shitty Sewer Swamp or just the Sewer Swamp, and everything was great now in The Perverted Zone which had spread over much of the old Smegmaville and it was starting to smell normal there for a change and not like it use to when The Sarge was there and it smelled like the worst sweat you could ever not want to smell. It was from all those Smegmanites sweating for centuries and watering the soil. Since everything was moving forward the good Doctor made several adjustments to his Universal Resonator, which was the contraption he had invented to transport anything in bulk anywhere else and went back to The Earth Plane of Existence where the horde had been for only a few minutes in Earth time and transport them back to the 13th Zone before the officials in all the governments had a chance to freak out. For the few minutes that the Horde of perverts were on the Earth Plane they told everyone how great the 13th Zone had been before they were zipped back. After that The 13th Zone was not only a popular tourist spot it was where millions of Earthling would move to and live out their lives. The Earth was falling apart with pollution,floods,fires and climate change and all the things that was killing the Earth. The way things were going it looked like the Earth might have ten years left before it would be unlivable in most parts maybe less than five by many studies and they weren't waiting around when there was a better, cleaner and nicer place to live.

The governments got together and complained to Doctor Perverto about him promising to clear up the ozone layer like he transported all those beings somewhere. Perverto said that he slowed the temperature down in the oceans enough to stop Global warming enough that the polar ice caps would slow the melting for a while. But he said you people have to take your fingers out of your ass and clean up that ocean first before I can reverse it completely and start on clearing up the ozone layer for you. Get all that plastic out of all the oceans and seas and lakes and don't put any more in otherwise I can't help you until you do.

I am prepared and obligated to take care of it once that task is completed. The Earth plane isn't as crowded now you have plenty of humans and enough brains and hopefully the will power and nerve to get the task completed. When you do I'll know it and be back to take care of my promise. With that he was gone back to a place that now had humans who wanted and deserved a new better life. The 13th Zone would become what he always hoped for. A place he could make like he had seen on Earth and real people to do it with.